B. F. Beyan, Chalman,

LET US REASON TOGETHER.

Everyone will admit that the outloo Everyone will admit that the outlook for farmers and the laloring classes gen-erally is loss lopeful at present than it has ever been. Everywhere there is growing dissatisfaction and silent prepa-rations for some action that will bring about a better condition of things. Not only is it exhibited by the laboring classes, but staticians and those who have about a better condition of things. Not only is it exhibited by the laboring classes, but staticians and those who have the opportunity to study and know the conditions as they exist are noting the experiment of the conditions as they exist are noting the static and the experiment of the suffering. It is not time to stop to theorize about the enuses which led but is sufficient. It is not time to stop to the condition of the con the situation. Two yours ago those promises were all reviewed and it is time for an evidence of their fulfillment. At no time in our country's bistory has the Republican party had more absolute power than of present. The power than to could not be gained by translulent elec-tions has been usefuned by arrogant demagazines. Instead of seeing the promises of the past fulfilled and the record of the past fulfilled and the promises of the past fulfilled and the promises of the past fulfilled and the try, we see the old vicinots legislation, re-trey, we see the old vicinots legislation, re-newed and the slundow of oppression darkecting into a night of servitude for heading the past of the properties of the pilled up in an overflowing treasury is recklosely toyed with and appropriated it ways that beet graftly the prejudices of marrow minded politicians who seek in prosume to cume before the people, ask-ing for an extrusion of power and proto-gratuling see meritiesely? People Who Spend Money

Ought to be careful that they get value for it; that is the only way to succeed in this world. There is too much money squandered nowadays. Money spent injudiciously impoverishes the one and enriches the other. Always see that you get a dollar's worth in value for every dollar you spend; then you can rest assured that the wolf will never howl at your door.

When you feel necessitated to spend noney for clothing, conte to us. We can suit you in goods and price; we give you the only real home-manufactured Clothing-all our own manufacture-which is far superior to any other. We give you the further assurance of honest dealings and
